RAIN WATER HARVESTING

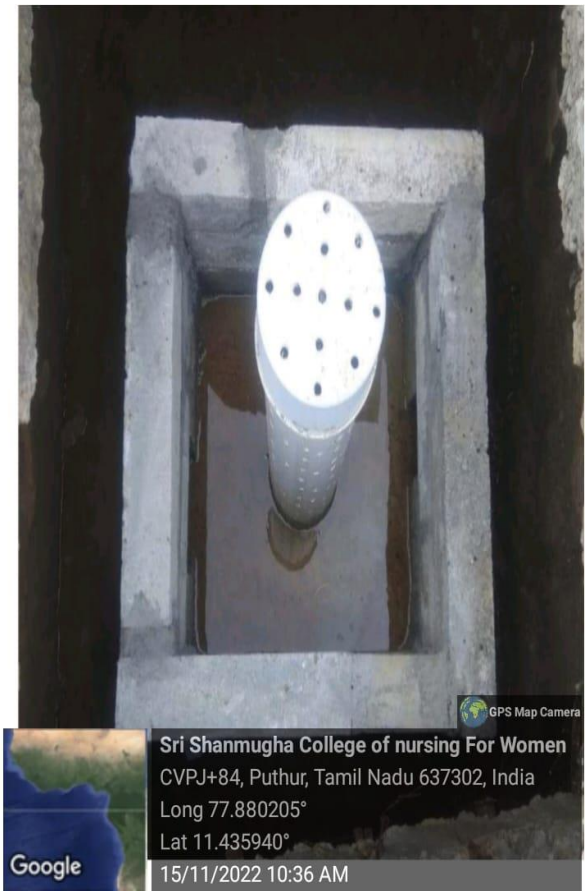

Our Institution building has separate lines for rain water harvesting from the building terrace and those rain waters are collected from the pipelines and connected to rain water harvesting ponds. Our rain water harvesting ponds having a capacity of 12.5 lakhs liters. The Institution is implemented the rain water harvesting system to recharge ground water by collecting the rain water from the catchment areas from the roof top of the buildings.

BOREWELL RECHARGE/ OPENWELL RECHARGE

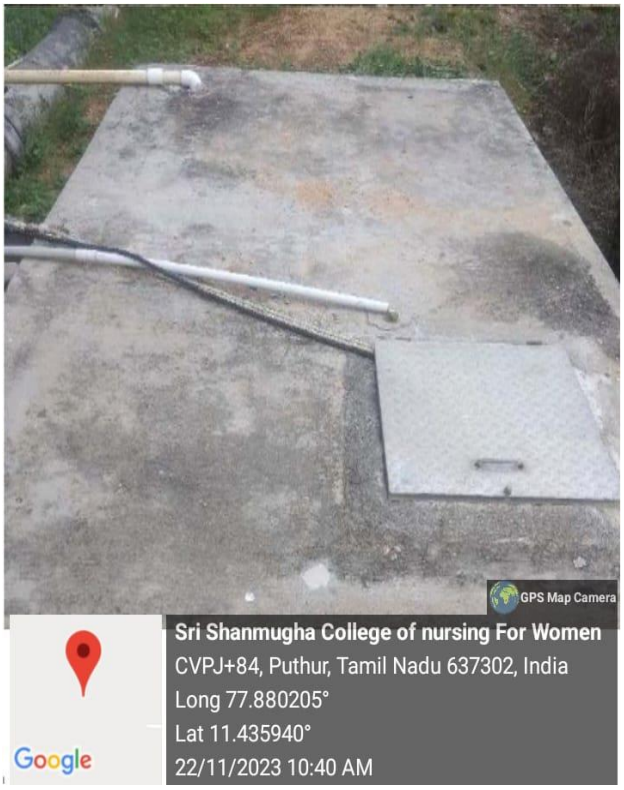

Our Institution makes use of bore well and open well to meet its water requirements. The water from the catchment areas are collected in large and deep well in the campus which is used for gardening, irrigation and also used occasionally for construction works. The harvested water is used as a longer term storage as ground water recharge.

CONSTRUCTION OF TANKS

Tanks were used to provide storage of water for use in many applications, drinking water, irrigation agriculture, fire suppression, agricultural farming, both for plants and livestock, chemical manufacturing, food preparation as well as many other uses. The tanks also helped increase the water level in the nearby wells and helped prevent rainwater runoff and erosion of top soils.

RO PLANT

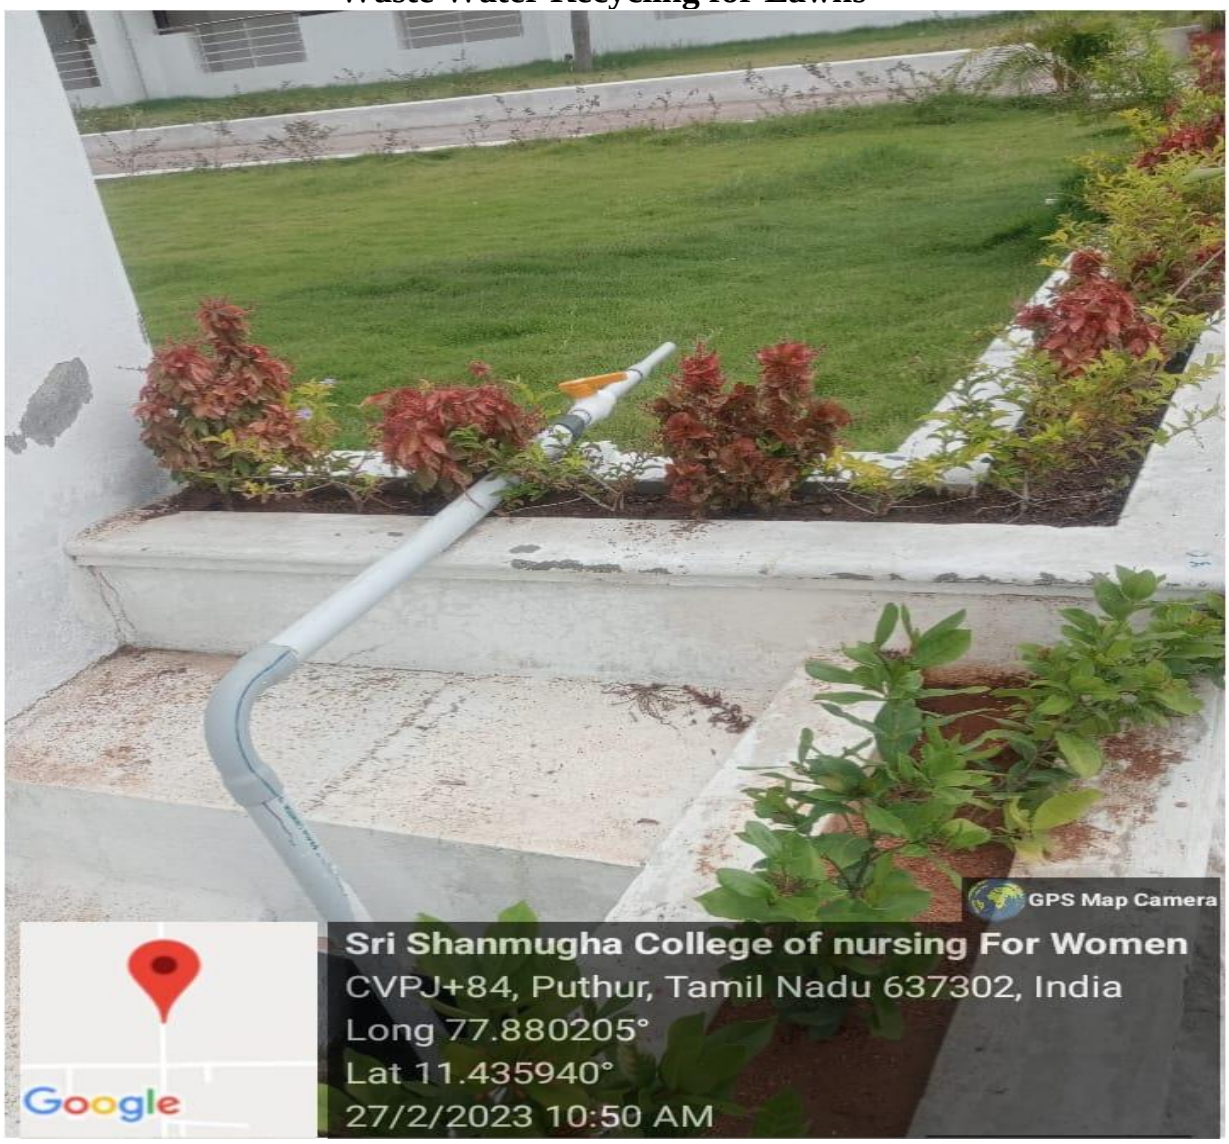

Water produced by reverse osmosis may be used for a variety of purposes, including desalination, waste water treatment, concentration of contaminants, and the reclamation of dissolved minerals. It is a water purification process that removes ions, unwanted molecules and larger particles from drinking water using a partially permeable membrane.
